NOTES

* Records were recognised for the Senior Boys age-group. This age-group was replaced by the Under-15 age category in 1993 with the first Scottish records for the new age-group being ratified in September 1994. These are performances that have been officially recognised as Senior Boys or Under-15 indoor records. The Under 15 age-category superseded the previous Senior Boys category which had different age regulations (effectively, Senior Boys could be up to 9 months older than an under 15).

 Records were recognised for the Youths age-group. This age-group was replaced by the Under-17 age category in 1993 with the first Scottish records for the new age-group being ratified in September 1994. These are performances that have been officially recognised as Youths or Under-17 indoor records. The Under 17 age-category superseded the previous Youths category which had different age regulations (effectively, Youths could be up to 9 months older than an under 17).

(a) Following the change of age-group from Senior Boys to Under-15 in 1993, certain Senior Boys performances were no longer eligible to be recognised as under-15 records as the athletes would have been too old for the under-15 age-group.

(b) From 1994, hand time performances not accepted for records up to and including 400 metres and records replaced at that time.

(c) Following the change of age-group from Youths to Under-17 in 1993, certain Youths performances were no longer eligible to be recognised as under-17 records as the athletes would have been too old for the under-17 age-group.
